ROADHOUSE PARTY LED TO SWORD KILLING

Liquor Provider Held by Coroner's Jury as Accessory to Murder of Father by Son.

Special to the Post-Dispatch, CHICAGO, Dec. 17. — George Shaw, who killed his father, Bruce Shaw, with a sword, has been ordered held to the grand jury on a charge of murder, by a Coroner's jury. Taken into custody with him was Earl Todd, a soda dispenser, who is alleged to have provided the alcohol, consumed at a roadhouse, that drove young Shaw into his killing frenzy. Todd was charged with having been an accessory before the fact.

The defendant took the verdist of the Coroner's jury calmly. Tod 1. however, paled at the recommendation that he be included in the murder charge. Until the moment that the jury brought in its finding he apparently had not considered this possibility.

The jury also recommended that

Returned at 3 A. M. "George came home at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon." Mrs. Shaw said, in a voice that broke continually. "He said he wanted money to buy Christmas presents for his sister and her baby. His father gave him a check and he went out. He came back about dinner time and announced that he was going to a party. He asked his sister. Marie, to go with him.

"Marle did not accept the invi-tation at once. But George told her the name of the girl he was cented to be one of the party.

'About 3 o'clock Sunday morn I saw a light in the garage. I looked out and saw George coming across the yard and from the look on his face I could tell that he was drunk. I asked his father to go down and take care of him. Mr. Shaw came back after a while and said that there was a girl with Everybody bed and the house was quiet. Marie came home and went to her room. Then there was terrific noise in the hallway. The girls had put a chair against the door but somehow George had forced his way in. Mr. Shaw, who usually was more than a match for the boy in strength, went out and ran downstairs and tel the police. Next I saw my daugh-ter leading her father. He was bleeding. She put him to bed or the couch and telephoned for a

CRITICISM BY HADLEY UNFAIR,

Probate Judge Answers Washington U. Chancellor's Statement on Wainwright Case.

Probate Judge Holtcamp has made public copies of a letter written by him to Chancellor Hadley of Washington University, following the Chancellor's statement, published last Friday, which contained expressions of censure for the course taken in the Circuit and Probate courts in relation to the Ellis Wainwright will contest. Walnwright's will named the university as chief beneficiary of his $890,000 estate.

In his letter, Judge Holtcamp states that he was required to name a new administrator, such action being automatically necessary, under the law, upon the filing of a will contest suit. He said that he knew nothing of the contest suit, which was filed in the Cir-cuit Court at 12:01 a. m., Nov. 28, until 9:50 a.m. on that day. He then appointed Edwin W. Lee

Text of the Letter. "I was first informed through the press," Judge Holtcamp says, "that certain trust companies were willing to accept the appointment and serve without compensation. and at no time has any information come to me, except through your statement that the former executors were willing to serve without compensation as administrators pendente lite.

"I presume you are sufficiently learned in the law to know that I could not appoint the former executors, or either of them, as ad ministrators pendente lite, for the reason that I am required to appoint a neutral and disinterested harty as such administrator pen-dente lite. Washington University is not the only party interested in the Wainwright estate: other legatees, and possible creditors, as well ies the State of Missouri, are inter-

"I am forced to feel that you were very unfair and unjust in your attack on me, and I am supported in this feeling by the expressions of many members of the Bar who have come to me, and many of whom are Washington University graduates.

Criticism Called Unfair. "I have lived in St. Louis for ever 44 years; I am a graduate of the Law Department of Wash-ington University, and am serving my fifth term as Probate Judge, and I feel that I have the confidence of the members of the Bar and of the people of this city. This is the first time in all the years that I have been on the bench that a man of your standing and sup-posed knowledge of the law has sorted to the newspapers to unfairly, unjustly and without war-rant criticise my judicial acts. I have been wrongfully criticised at times by persons ignorant of the law, and for selfish motives, but that is to be expected."

Hadley Denies Attack on Holtcamp or His Judicial Conduct.

Chancellor Hadley, in a statement issued in reply to Judge Holtcamp's letter, said today that he had not attacked Judge Holtcamp or his judicial conduct. All he did, he said, was to state the facts and criticise the law, "in case it warrants the methods applied in this instance." Chancellor Hadley sald he became 'somewhat impatient" with the contest proceeding, in view of the possible dissipation of the resources of the estate, and in view of the use to which the tes-fator intended his money to be put by Washington University and the Children's Hospital.

"What I complained of." Chan-cellor Hadley said, "was that with-10 hours after the clandestine filing of this midnight suit of contest, this estate, amounting to $800,000 and consisting principally of stocks and bonds, was taken from the hands of the executors whom Mr. Wainwright selected and

I refer to the unparalleled panorama of the metropolis that may be obtained by the traveler arriving on a daylight Wabash train, say from the West, to include the country. Such a moving view is an antitoxia for the desire too frequently found among the uninitiated to call St. Louis a "small town." To begin with, 60 miles out a straight ribbon of concrete road, the Kansas City air line, has its temporary end, but leads to the Then the view of rolling agricultural lands of St. Charles and St. Louis counties and the pretty view of old St. Charles snuggling on the hills to one side, while on the far other side are the Mississippi bluffs and ahead is the graceful winding bridges high above the Missouri. How easy it always is to imagine pioneer boats struggling up the river current! But don't look at the modern factories to induce such reveries. Continuing, the rifle range on the east bank, and, father on, Lambert-St. Louis Field and its airplanes attract attention. The trolley line and more fine roads give increasing evidence of a center of population. Next are pretty suburbs, country estates, big institutions, a olf course. Around Wellston the long series of diversified industrial scenes begins-facries, warehouses, lumber yards, kilns-the foundation of the city. The train slips soon through long rows of the homes of the cliff dwellers, with a glimpse at the majesty of Jefferson Memorial, and then into Forest Park, with its beauties spread wide and flanked by the mansions of Lindell boulevard, giving way to the structural poem of the Kingshighway hotel and hospital district. Meanwhile street traffic and numerous traffic signals have combined to ustrate city life, and the railroad yards and viaducts augment this. Union Stationwell, it could be improved upon; the coming Station Plaza and Memorial Plaza will complete the stranger's induction. The other side of the Wabash picture? Why, it's the railroad's attitude toward the city that has so long delayed and still is attempting to delay the Delmar and adjacent viaducts, and lest the advertising be too much, I point to the St. Charles trolley and the fine Missourt highway which are in competition. health

NATURE is merciless.
Disregard her laws and you suffer.

Some of us in El Pasonow in robust, good health-know all too well the costly truth of it. If we had seized time by the forelock, we might not have had such long, trying months of convalescence. Don't Delay

We say, in all sincerity, to every man or woman with weak lungs, asthma, bronchitis, or tuberculosis, don't delay too long. You can't repair years of neglect overnight.

Be Wise

Be wise out-wit ill health A few months outdoor living and rest in this dry, sunny, delightful climate may forestall years of suffering.

We are proud that people get well in El Paso - proud that some who have come on stretchers, scarcely willing to live, are now strong, active, able to live anywhere.

Our Message

We want to place in the hands of everyone troubled with asthma, bronchitis, weak lungs or tuberculosis, a copy of 'Filling the Sunshine Prescription." This booklet, endorsed by the El Paso Medical Society, will be gladly sent on request.

The Gateway Club has nothing to sell and offers free information of great interest to those in ill-health. Get this booklet and learn about El Paso NOW while the low winter-excursion rates are in robbers overlooked $2000 in Oscar Berninghaus' painting, 'Their Son," now being exhibited at the National Academy of Design in New York, has just been purchased by the Ranger Fund, established by Henry Ward Ranger, N. A., when, upon his death, in 1916, his will specified that the income of his estate was to be spent by the Council of the National Academy of Design for the purhase of paintings by American artists, which pictures were to be given by the council to the art instituions of America.

These presentations are made cu the condition that the National Gallery at Washington shall have the option and right to reclaim and own any picture for their permanent collection provided this option is exercised within the fiveyear period beginning 10 years after the death of the artist and endng 15 years after his death. If uch option is not exercised by th National Gallery, the painting beomes the property of the instituigned by the Council of the Naional Academy.

Pictures by such famous artists as Bruce Crane, Elmer Schofield, Daniel Garber, F. J. Waugh, Gardner Symons and Leon Kroll already have been purchased and assigned to prominent art institutions in the country.

"Sleep," by Leon Kroll, was purchased from the 1923 Ranger Fund and presented last year to the City Art Museum of St. Louis, where it now hangs. Assignment of Berninghaus' picture will be announced some time within the coming year.

PROTEST AGAINST APARTMENT IN MOORLANDS ADDITION

Residents Gather to Oppose Lifting of Restrictions in Subdivision.

Numerous residents of Moorlands Addition and the Moorlands, subdivisions west of the city on Clayton road, gathered at the Gatesworth Apartment Hotel last night to discuss the proposal of the land agent to have restrictions against apartment houses in the addition

As told in Sunday's Post-Dispatch, the residents, who bought lots there to get away from c.t. ongestion and apartments, are prepared to file suit to oppose the ifting of restrictions. It was the sense of the meeting last night to ntinue the organization created the Moorlands Addition Improvement Association.

Speakers declared that not only he immediate question of self-protection but civic pride was involved. It was announced that representatives of residents in surrounding subdivisions had promised noral and financial support of the Moorlands fight against apartments. These other subdivisions, it was said, included Brentmoor, West Brentmoor, Forest Ridge, Southmoor, Hampton Park, Carrs-wold and Country Club place.

The Moorlands Addition Im provement Association will meet again at the Gatesworth Monday vening and the land agent, the Holbrook-Blackwelder Real Estate Trust Co., has called a meeting of ot owners to act on the restric ions next Tuesday.

ALL APPLICATIONS FOR CHRISTMAS BASKETS MUST BE IN BY 5 P. M. THURSDAY

THE list of persons to whom Christmas dinners will be sent in baskets by the Post-Dispatch Christmas Festival Association closes Thursday, Dec. 18. All applications must be in the hands of the committee by 5 p. m. This time limit has been fixed to allow time for the staff of investigators to inquire into the merits of each application and to give time for the Basket Supply Committee to purchase the food and pack the baskets.

Each application received be-fore the closing time of the list will be carefully investigated, and if the Festival Association can prevent it, there will not be a family in St. Louis deserving a special dinner on Christmas day and unable to obtain it through its own resources, which will be without that hap-piness. A staff of workers is handling the investigations under the direction of Miss Emma C. Puschner of the Board of Children's Guardians.

Deal Brings One Veteran And Two Promising Young Hurlers to Sisler's Aid

Bayne, Lyons and Schliebner Sent by Browns to Toledo for Giard, a Left-Hander, Who Had Fine Record.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff. CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—The long expected passing of Urban Shocker, great pitcher and high-powered temperamentalist, was spread on the Manager George Sisler this morning announced that the deal with the Yanks had been closed. In return for Shocker the Browns get Leslie Joseph Bush, known as "Bullet" Joe, and Milton Gaston, both right-hand pitchers of the Yankees.

In addition Huggins also turned over to the Browns New York's claim on Pitcher Joe Giard of Toledo, the Browns agreeing to send Schleibner, Lyons and Bayne to Toledo, all of them now farmed out on optional agreement for the young lefthander. If any cash was included in the New York Writers transaction no mention of it was made by the parties to the deal by which Shocker goes back after seven years, to the club from which he came to the Browns. On the surface and presuming that both men are in good condition and have no arm trouble, the trade appears in favor of the Browns, inasmuch as the two pitchers had about the same records last year, and are of almost exactly the same age. Both are veterans, but Bush has been pitching big league ball since 1913, while Shocker first 'came up" in 1916, when New York obtained him from Shocker is a better 'money" pitcher than Bush, his admirers think.

A. L. Magnates Frown on Deal. Sisler said that many magnates in the American League wanted to prevent Shocker from going to New York, but that the Yankees were the only clr's which would offer a fair exchange and that the Browns were forced to let the spitball ace go to the big city.

Comment by magnates at the meeting today indicated that the majority thought Sisler had engineered a smart deal and that the Browns had far the best of the

Believe Browns Got Better of the Deal

NEW YORK baseball writers here today indicated they thought the Browns got the better of the trade by which they got Joe Bush for Urban Shocker, especially in view of the fact that Shocker was dissatisfied with his St. Louis berth.

"Bush is a great pitcher and one of the best hitting pitchers in baseball," said Bill Hanna, a veteran who has followed the Yankees for years. "He not only is a great hitting pitcher, he also ranks high among batters. Time and again he has been used as pinch hitter and he is one of the most dangerous hitters in the league with men on bases and a hit needed to the or win a game. It will be with real regret that we will see Bush in another uni-

Manager Sisler of the Browns spoke in praise of Milton Gaston, the young righthand pitcher obtained with Bush.

"I think he will develop into fine pitcher," said Sisler. "I was impressed with him last year. Time and again he went in as relief pitcher when the going was warm, but he never faltered. He has that necessary asset of a pitcher-courage."

er has had his most effective years.

His best season was in 1921 when

Bush did not total as many as 20 victories in any year until he juined the Yanks. Then he showed his best form and in 1922 was one of the greatest hurlers in the organization.

The season just past Bush won 17 games and lost 16 for the Yanks and had an earned run average of 3.51. In previous years with the spite the high earned-run average of 3.57. He is 32 years of age, five days younger than Shocker, both having been born in November, 1892.

Milton Gaston, who won five games and lost three for the Yankees last year, his first year with the club, is a very promising young hurler. He is a right-hander like Bush and last season had an earned average of 4.50 for the 86 innings in which he pitched.

(Copyright, 1924.) THE mashie, considered one of most important clubs in your bag, is a direction club, used for shots from 110 to 140 yards to approach the green. It should never be played with more than a half swing and is used for direction and not for distance.

In playing the mashie, use an open stance with right foot advanced six inches or so, and the weight equally distributed on your feet. Play the ball at about center. In addressing the ball have your hands advanced in front of club head, with the toe of the club open.

By all means, keep a straight left arm, with the right elbow close to your side. Strike to acquire a compact, grooved swing. Use your hands and arms and keep your body out of the stroke. I might say here that in my estimation golf is a hand-and-arm game and my advice is to use

Britain against such implements made no difference in the game, according to statistics gathered and made public today by Jack Daray, professional, at Olympia Fields Country Club.

Scoring was better than ever, if anything, among the experts, who alone were affected by the order, and ordinary golfers continue to use the ribbed clubs, which are hanned only in championship play. The only golfer whose scoring this year might lead to a belief that his game was adversely affected by the rule was Jock Hutch-ison of Chicago, whose victory in the British open three years ago brought about the ban. But Jock's slump was due entirely to his puting, which was bad all season, his approaches being as uncannily accurate as usual.

The main argument in favor of the store of the storted clubs was that they helped the ordinary golfer to put stop on the ball somewhat like the expert does by cutting the pellet with the edge of the iron in

It's all because of a clause in the national 'agreement which was forced upon the American League at the time when Landis was chosen commissione. Here in substance:

"We hereby agree to accept, without any PUBLIC CRITI-CISM whatsoever, every ruling which the High Commissioner (K. M. Landis) may make, even when we have reason to feel that the Commissioner is in error."

Thus, no matter what the "Jedge" may do, he is not to be publicly criticised. Sixteen club owners and the two league presidents' names are beneath that clause. Johnson

"I doubt the ability of any commission to put prize-fighting on a plane of cleanliness and squareness."

That's as much as to say that prize fighting is hopelessly crooked; and in this view there are two errors. The first is that boxing and prize fighting are miles apart, although reformers profess to think not; and it is a BOXING commission the Governor is asked to name.

The second is that boxing is

I do not know what attitude you hold in the matter, but I do know that ever since I have read your column, you have always been fair.

Now the thing that I do not understand is, why should Washington University go outside of St. Louis for a coach when one of the best football players of recent vears is a St. Louis man—Jimmy Conzelman—and I am certain he would make an excellent coach for numerous reasons.

YEATMAN'S SHOOTING POOR, RANKEN WINS

ROUGHLY PLAYED GAME The Ranken basket ball team defeated Yeatman, 14-7, yesterday on the Battery "A" floor. Inability to make short shots was responsible for the low Yeatman score. General rough play and fouling marred the otherwise interesting game. Yeatman was on the short end of the score the first half, 12-4, but they ored more than their opponents

Make Your Family The Gift of Music

Music and Christmas are inseparable. Christmas Song of "Good Will Toward Men," which sings in the heart of the World at Christmas time should find expression in every home on Christmas day.

What better gift to your family than a musical instrument to help them give expression to this joy?

The finest thing about such a gift is that it is not for one day, but for 365 days; not for one person's enjoyment but for that of every member of the family and for every guest of the family; it opens up not one avenue of recreation and education, but many.

If you have musical ability in your family, encourage it by a gift of the instrument to which that particular talent is devoted.

If there are students of music whose education in this fine art depends upon the daily use of an instrument, no gift is so worth while. And if there is no one in the family who plays, the gates of melody may yet be flung wide open for all by the gift of a player-piano or a talking machine, which will turn your living room into a Concert, Opera, or Symphony Hall. For gayer uses, it will provide an orchestra for danc-

Wide opportunity in the selection of musical instruments offers itself through the columns of this newspaper because the Post-Dispatch carries far more Musical Instrument Advertising than all other St. Louis newspapers COMBINED.

You will find much pleasure and profit in the reading of the Musical Instrument Advertising in the Post-Dispatch. The announcements found regularly in this newspaper are an education in musical instrument values. Here you will learn many things about many makes of instruments.

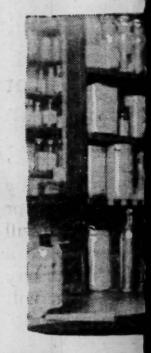

Let these Advertisements aid you in selection. Do not delay your purchase for Christmas means most to those who do their shopping early.

Forty-Year 7% Secured Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

Due November 1, 1964

Interest payable May 1 and November 1. Principal and interest payable in New York, at the office of Speyer & Co., in United States Gold Coin of the present standard of weight and fineness, without deduction for any Greek taxes, present or future. Coupon Bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500.

Sinking Fund: Cumulative Sinking Fund of ½ % per annum, sufficient to redeem the entire Loan at or before maturity. Additional Sinking fund, equal to 75% of capital repayments referred to below, estimated to amount, after 1928, to about $2,800,000 per annum, of which amount about $500,000 would be applicable to the American issue. Sinking Fund to be applied to redemption of Bonds through semiannual drawings at par.

Not subject to redemption before May 1, 1935, except by Sinking Fund operating by drawings at par. The Government reserves the right on that date, or any interest date thereafter, to increase the Sinking Fund, or to pay off at par the whole Loan on giving three months' previous notice.

$59,858,000), the balance of which, namely $7,500,000 Sterling Bonds have been sold, through public subscription in London by Hambros Bank, Limited, and £2,500,000 Sterling Bonds are being offered in Athens by the National Bank of Greece. This Loan is issued pursuant to the Geneva Protocols, dated September 29, 1923 and September 19, 1924, ratified by Acts of the Greek Parliament, dated June 7 and October 24, 1924, and the Resolutions of the Council of the League of Nations, dated September for establishing on the land or in industry Greeks who, after being forced to leave Turkey, are to be settled in Greece ac cording to the convention for the exchange of populations signed in Lausanne in 1923. The number so to be settled is approximately 1,500,000. For this work a Refugee Settlement commission has been established by the Greek Government with the approval of the Council of the League of Nations, which will have supervision over the operations of the Commission. It consists of two members appointed by the League, one of them an American citizen, who is to be Chairman, and two members appointed by the Greek Government with the approval of the League. Hen. Henry Morgenthau was the first Chairman and has been succeeded by Hon. Charles P. Howland of New York.

The proceeds of the Loan, after payment of advances amounting to about $16,450,000 from the Bank of England and the National Bank of Greece for the work of the Commission, will be placed at the disposal of the Commission and the Government has undertaken to transfer to it, free of charge, about 1,250,000 acres of land suitable for cultivation. houses and urban real estate, the value of which is estimated at more than $48,000,000. The Commission plans to grant the lands to settlers on terms involving repayment in semi-annual installments with interest over a period of not more than fifteen years and to make advances, from the funds at its disposal, for productive purposes on similar terms.

SECURITY: The Loan will be the direct obligation of the Greek Government and will be secured by:

 A first charge on revenues to be collected under the control of the International Finan-cial Commission, the yield of which for the year 1925 is estimated (on the basis of receipts

The revenues so pledged are the receipts from monopolies (i. e., salt, matches, playing cards and cigarette paper), tobacco and stamp duties in the new territories of Greece, from the customs at Canea, Candia, Samos, Chios, Myslene and Syra, and from the alcohol duty in the whole of Greece (the last named revenue is subject, however, to a contingent prior charge of about $400,000).

arge upon the surplus of reve tofore assigned to the International Financial Commission over requirements for the service of the loans for which such revenues have been pledged. This surplus for the year 1925 is estimated (on the basis of the receipts for the first nine months of 1924) at about $13,731,000

Total about$25,976,000 The above revenues pledged for this Loan should equal about six times the annual interest and sinking fund requirements amounting (at par of exchange for Sterling) to about

(3) A first charge on the property and income of the Refugee Settlement Commission. It is estimated that the value of the property and assets of the Commission after the prothe property and assets of the Commission after the proceeds of this Loan have been applied as planned will be approximately $94,000,000 and that, taking a period for repayment of fifteen years, the receipts from repayments for lands sold, moneys advanced and rents, should, on an equal annual installment basis, amount after 1928 to not less than $4,700,000 per annum or more than the annual requirements for the service of the Loan. Approximately four-fifths of this amount, it is estimated, will be repayments of capital, 75% of which, or over $2,800,000, are to be applied as an additional sinking fund for redemption of Bonds of this Loan.

The International Financial Commission referred to above was formed in 1898 to control the collection of and to administer the revenues assigned to the service of Greek Government Loans. The members of the Commission are representatives of the Governments of Great Britain, France and Italy. It has accepted irrevocably the order of the Greek Government to retain from the revenues pledged for this Loan the amounts required for payment of interest and sinking fund.

Since 1898, during which time the country has passed through two Balkan wars and the great European war, Greece has consistently maintained payments due under the obligations of her external debt.

Except as otherwise stated, the dellar amounts shown above have been converted at the rate of 250 Drachmae per Pound Sterling and $4.70 per Pound Sterling.

Application will be made in due course to list these Bonds on the New York Stock Exchange

A large part of the above Dollar Bonds having been sold we offer the balance for subscription when, as and if issued and received by us, at

88% and accrued interest, to yield 8%

All proceedings in connection with the issuance of the above bonds are subject to the approval of our counsel, Messrs. Cadwalder, Wickersham & Taft.

Subscription lists will be opened at our office at 10 o'clock A. M., Wednesday, December 17, 1924 and will be closed in our discretion. We reserve the right to reject any application and to allot a smallar amount than applied for Amounts due on allotments will be payable at our office in New York funds on or about January 6, 1925 against delivery of Interim Receipts exchangeable for Definitive Bonds when ready.

Community Growth and

Goodfellow Lumber Company

THE Goodfellow Lumber Company, during the period of I its remarkable growth, has seen a wonderful development in the community in which it is located. Excellent roads, pretty homes and suburban beauty have made the Natural Bridge neighborhood one of St. Louis' most attractive residence sections.

The new bus lines make this northwest residence section and the great Natural Bridge industrial district readily accessible from all parts of the city.

The busses of the St. Louis Bus Company, which stop in front of our plant on Natural Bridge at Goodfellow, have transfer privileges with the Natural Bridge and Union street car lines. and connect with the Kirkwood-Ferguson line. They connect with the busses of the People's Motor Bus Company at Kingshighway.

An Invitation

We invite the people in all parts of St. Louis to visit our lumber yard. You can now reach it direct by bus or by street car and bus.

Come out and see how a lumber company with an established "square-deal" policy has grown. You will pass the great Natural Bridge industrial district. You will be surprised at the pretty residence sections in this rapidly growing community of homes.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17.—Raw sugar was unchanged early today at 4.90 duty paid for nearby sugars, and at 4.77 for January shipment. There were sales of 45,000 bags Cubans, first half January clearance to an operator at 4.77. Further evening up in December raw sugar futures caused irresularity in that positino. After seiling at 3.85 or 15 points net higher, it eased off to 3.75 or only 5 points above the previous close. Other months were steady in sympathy and on buying of houses with trade and Cuban connections. Noon prices were unchanged to 1 point net higher. Refined sugar continued quiet at former prices of 7.15 to 7.60 for fine granulated. Refined futures were nominal.

FIFTEENTH INSTALLMENT. Chapter 29.

HE Peakes were prompt with their hospitality. The exalted Spaniard was given the state chamber which during her lifetime, had belonged to Grandmother Peake. Zeno Washington, a nimble young mulatto with something of the worldly air which we associate with Pullman porters, appeared to "wait on" the affable young Marquis. It was a splendid occasion for Zeno who was all but overcome by the variety of masculine garments which he was called upon to unpack and hang in Grandmother Peake's enormous closet. Opening bag after bag, he hoped breathlessly to come upon a golden crown or a sceptre or a velvet robe with ermine edges. The absence of these identifying articles dampened Zeno's ardor for a time. . . . But the Marquis had a way with him that banished all misgivings.

Seated in front of a gigantic wal- | der any more money from her own nut mirror San Pilar surrendered his patrician chin to the blandishments of Zeno's razor. A blond Castilian was the Marquis with a thin, rather arrogant nose and a sabre scar which accentuated the heaviness of his lower lip and the length of his protruding chin. He was small and military; to the superficial observer he would have passed for a German. Indeed, he had gained his wound in a Heidelterg dueling corps-the Union Democrat had published the latter information exclusively. The newspaper reporters had told many things about the little man, but it was for Zeno, the valet pro tem, to learn his graciousness and his

He wanted to know if the negroes lived in tribes that some of them should be so much lighter and handsomer than others. He wanted to know if ice cream suda-could be obtained in the casually, he asked about the Peakes. Did the name imply nobility in a great commonwealth like America?

The last question offered a golden opportunity to Zeno's descriptive wers. He gave an impression of vast real estate holdings, such as the Duke of Westminster's in the gray heart of London. Judge Peake, sah? Zeno reckoned he owned everything from the K. & G. down depot to the river, throwing in the railroad, the slaughter house and the Newberry Lumber The Peakes had been quality ever since Columbus discovered America and Jedge Peake could be King. Zeno reckoned, if squeezed his arm by way of atone-ment. wasn't too old to take the nomination. Everybody took off his hat to the Peakes, including the Mayor. Yes, sah, Mist' Marquis, ain't that the truth!

Another thing the Marquis wanted to know. America was so gigantic, he prefaced almost apolfor a foreigner to understand some Paris he had remained sane enough things. This splendid house . . . in Europe it would be placed World. Tonight he was beyond among other palaces. But in America it seemed not so. This mansion, for instance, stood in the midst of perhaps in seven years. charitab's institutions, what-youcall skyscrapers and various shoplavish with their decorations. Unping enterprises. Why should that

And here again, as he applied a hot towel to San Pilar's chin, was Zeno's chance. Judge Peake was a proud ge'l'man. Yes, sah. Proudest ge'l'man in America. He wasn't goin' to let the Republican party and Yankee white trash shove him of Inness street. No. sah, Mist' Marquis. Only las' week 'long come a Yankee an' offuh six million dellahs fo' the very lot on which this house is standin' now, sah. But the Judge he ain't the sellin' kind. This house has dred years, and the Jedge 'spect to die here and have his funeral down Inness street, respectable like all All of this was comprehensible to San Pilar, who appreciated con-servatism and pride of race. While eno eased him into his dress coat he gazed curiously up at the oval portrait of Grandmother Peake. It hung just above the walnut carving of corn and grapes which centered the bed's headpiece. "She was a queen," murmured

She received his compliments with a small, secretive smile and her manner although excellent, was rather cold. He judged her to be enreastic. San Pilar should have known, for he had studied many things, and she would call him women. She lingered just an instant, then crossed the room to where her stepmother stood.

"Miss Nellie-" she began-she had never learned to call her "Mother" as Flora Lee did so glibly-"can't you change my place or let me stay out?" "Margaret, darling!" This in a

Out in the dining room Margaret retained that fixed, mysterious smile; she was even jolly with Harwhom she regarded more as an old friend than an old servant. But it wouldn't do to give the negroes even a hint of what was brewing. She loved them and she knew their very human faults:

APPLES IN THE DAILY DIET By Hannah Wing

ACH year sees a large apple crop in this country, and this s fortunate for the health of the people. Here is a fruit that is good in many of the qualities that the most nutritive of fruits haveiron, vitamines and certain healthful acids that help to offset the consequences of overmuch eating. As a fresh fruit for breakfast, a good, crisp apple is as good as any sauce, it is still a fine breakfast Any of the varieties of apples that are good to eat fresh are equally good in salads. Finely chopped apple with celery and cabbage makes a fine crisp salad. One of the most appetizing of the apple salads is one made from slices of apples and diced sweet Spanish onion. This may be mixed with either a boiled or a mayonnaise dressing.

In the class of desserts there is almost no end to the list of apple dishes. This is one reason that it is somewhat surprising that so much apple pie is eaten and so comparatively few other desserts are attempted. Dumplings, brown Bettys, whips and an occasiona! pudding are about all that are tried.

One of the places where the apple as a fruit is most welcome is in breads and muffins. An apple sauce cake of dried apples is an old favorite, but a warm ginger bread poured over a fresh apple sauce in which the apple quarters ave been only partially cooked in syrup, and the whole baked and irned out upside down, is one of the treats of the season. This cake should be eaten hot. Apple muffins are a breakfast treat that may well be used as a supper or luncheon bread or even for afternoon teas with coffee. Make any good muffin mixture and fill muffin wells half full of the mixture.

Add one tablespoonful of sweet ened apple sauce and cover with the muffin mixture. Bake from 20 to 30 minutes in a moderately hot oven (350 degrees F.).

Apple rings fried in bacon fat and served with liver and bacon or with roast pork find a place in the main course of the meal. A casserole of pork chops and apples quite transforms the pork chop into a dish of the first class.

There are many sweets made from apples. One of the most popular of these is an apple taffy, which is made from apple juice that has been extracted as in making july. Use one-half cup of this juice with two cups of sugar and one teaspoon of vinegar. Cook to the crack stage (310 degrees F.) add one tablespoon of butter, turn out on a buttered plate, and when cool enough to handle pull until the taffy is white and glossy.

Veal Hash.

Chop fine enough cold cooked veal to make a cupful and a half. Chop enough cold boiled potatoes to make two cupfuls and mix with the meat, adding pepper, salt, a dessertspoonful of sugar and a tablespoonful of butter. Melt a little butter in the frying pan, put in until soft but not brown; then put in the hash, adding just a small quantity of water to moisten the mass. Cover and steam well, stirring frequently; then uncover and cook to just the consistency liked. Serve on a hot dish with a garnish of deviled eggs.

Cover with three pints of point and let cook until soft (from one to two hours). Do not drain: turn into a puree strainer placed over a saucepan and rub the pulp through; keep hot. Cook onefourth cup each of sliced onion and carrot in two tablespoons of strained salt pork fat or strained bacon fat five minutes without browning; add two tablespoons of flour mixed with one teaspoon of salt and one-half teaspoon of white pepper; stir until well blended, then add to the boiling soup, stirring constantly. Strain and reheat; add one cup of scalded milk, stirring constantly, and two tablespoons of butter in small bits. Serve with croutons of bread.

LEMON ICE BOX CAKE.

One medium sponge cake, 4 egg yolks, one-half cup butter, juice and rind of one lemon, one cup of sugar, four egg whites, whipped cream. Make a sponge cake, following any good recipe. Cream the butter, gradually add sugar. Add well beaten egg yolks, juice and grated rind of lemon, and then fold in the stiffly beaten whites of eggs. Cut the sponge cake in thin slices and line a large bowl with wax paper. Pour one-half the mixture over the cake, and then add another layer of sliced sponge cake and the balance of the mixture, covering same with another layer of cake. Put in ice box over night, turn out on plate and serve with whipped had discovered that there was a hunter looking for him he wasn't as frightened as you might suppose he would have been. You see it was a relief to know just where that hunter was. Lightfoot knew that the hunter hadn't seen him. He made no sound as he stole out of his hiding place, and as he ran he took great care to keep that little clump of trees he had just left between him and the hunter. When he felt it was safe to do so he made a wide circle and came around to the last place you would have ex- He kne pected him to visit. It was the very place where he had seen that

Lightfoot Plays a Simple Trick

Pray don't another underrate.

For doing this is tempting fate.

Now that hunter was smarter than Lightfood thought. He had hunted deer for many years. He knew just how clever some of them are, and he knew many of the tricks they use to fool hunters. He was an honest hunter. He was a hunter who believed in true sportsmanship. He would have scorned to use a dog to drive Lightfoot. He wanted to kill Lightfood, of course. Otherwise e wouldn't have been hunting im. But he wanted to get him fairly by matching his wits

When he entered the thicket of bed Lightfoot had been lying in. He felt of it. The leaves were still warm. He knew then that Lightfoot had been gone but a few minutes. He knew right away that Lightfoot had either heard or seen him. "It was that Jay that gave him warning!" muttered the hunter. "Now, the question is, what will Lightfoot do? I have an idea that he will simply circle around to get my wind, and then, as likely as not, he'll come right back here. He thinks he is clever, but I'll show him that there are others quite
